Code of Conduct

Objective: To promote, maintain and enhance the reputation of the Emerald Photographic Club, it is desirable that its members strive for high standards of integrity. Members should also be considerate and courteous to other members and individuals who are not members, when representing the Club.

As a member of the club, I will strive to be supportive of other member's work. If I have a strong negative opinion about the work, or if I am offended by the content, I shall speak privately with the management committee about my concerns.

I will never use another member's work without their express written permission, and will never pass the work of others off as my own.

I accept that my work is my own intellectual property and can use it accordingly, provided I have appropriate releases.

I will pay my membership dues, workshop fees & any other payments on time.

I will not encourage the use of improperly licensed software by others, nor will I share such a thing with other members.

If I no longer want emails and other communications pertaining to the club, I will advise the management committee in writing.

I will have proper regard for public law and the safety, health and welfare of myself, other members and the public.

I will maintain confidentiality of information obtained where it is requested to remain confidential.

I will treat all others in a fair and equitable way. I will not commit any act of harassment, discrimination, exploitation or coercion. I will maintain a commitment to honesty, integrity and excellence in all dealings.

I will ensure that the performing of any commercial services and the charging there of, to the Club, has the approval of the committee in advance.

I will abide by any rules of the Club.
